VERY NARROW ESCAPE

Eris Came Extremely Close to Batting Out a Victory in the Ninth,

It was a contest of errors on both sides, and the spectators groaned at the bad plays. Scranton had the game bagged until the ninth inning, and the Erie sluggers came to the bat with the score 18 to 4 in favor of Scranton and batted out eight runs, coming within one of tieing the score.

Cahill's men went down before Mc-Ginnis in one, two, three order in their half of the first two innings. In the third inning Smith led off with a liner toward second base, which was thrown wild to first, allowing the ruuner to reach third, Quarles went out on a foul hit and Manager Cahill was next to the bat. He smashed the ball on the nose for three bases, and Smith scored. Hoover hit for a two-bagger and brought in Cahill. The rest of the men died on bases. The Eries scored a run on the second on a three bagger and an error. In the fifth inning Scranton increased its lead by bringing in another run. But when the Erie's went to the bat they tied the score. Cahill was the first man to the bat in the snatch running and he struck out. The rest of the club did not do any-thing to the Eric pitcher but hammer the ball all over the field, scoring eight runs. They made another run in the seventh, making a total of 13 scores to their credit. Although the Erie club gave their pitcher yellow support, still Cahill's men hit the ball hard and tapped Mr. McGinnis, who recently held them down to seven scratch hits at

Quarles pitched a splendid game un-til the ninth inning and then he went to pieces and almost lost the game, which would have been the case but for the big lead Seranton had. Up to this time not an earned run had been secured off Quarles and the four runs credited to Erie had been presented to them through errors,

In the ninth inning Shearon led off with a three bagger and scored on Lally's hit. Fields made a two bagger and Lally scored. The hitting con-tinued until eleven men had batted and eight of them had scored. Fields came to the bat a second time and Lally was on second with two out. A hit would have tied the score and very likely won the game; but Mr. Fields sent a short foul fly down to Lehane and the disgusted audience set sail for home.

SIXTEEN INNINGS.

Yet Springfield-Wilker-Barre Game Ru-

mains a Glorious Uncertainty. Springfield, Mass., Ang. 28.—Umpire Connolly was roundly hissed when he called the game here today at the end of the sixteenth inning. The cause he assigned was darkness, though it was only a few minutes after 5 o'clock and there was plenty of light to go on with the game. It was planned to play off two games this afternoon, the first of them being a postponed game, but not one was finished. The game is the record game of the season for length. It was well played on both sides, but Springfield was getting the advantage at the close and would probably have won in another inning, as Warner was disabled. Score:

EASTERN LEAGUE MEETING. The Season Will Be Prolonged One Week Only.

New York, Aug. 28.—A special meeting of the Eastern Base Ball league was held this morning at the Fifth Avenue hotel for the purpose of extending the sesson of the league so as to permit the Yonkers club, formerly the Allentowns, playing against the Giants on the latter's grounds. The season of the Eastern league has heretofore terminated the middle of September, but recently two-thirds of the clubs petitioned the executive to extend the season till the end of the

This was found impracticable at todays' meeting, but will probably be so arranged next year. As it is, the schedule was re-arranged to give the Yonkers men a go at the New Yorks on the Polo grounds on Sept. 7 The following day the Yonkers club will play two games at Buffalo and continue their swing around the circle, playing in Providence Sept. 17 and 18, and winding up the season Sept. 20 and 21 at Springfield, Mass.

It will thus be seen that the season has been prolonged only one week and that mainly for the purpose of bring-ing "King Kel" and his men to the fore. President Powers said today that the present season bade fair to be the most successful in the history of the Eastern league.

How the "Sexton Beetle" Labors to Bury Its Fellow Creatures. The two beetles were soon at their post, They first ran around the body of the dead fish until they met. Then they seemed to be conferring for a moment. Next they passed under the body at opposite sides and began to lift. The head rose slowly and then both the toilers could be distinctly seen at work. One was lying on his back with feet in the air, lifting the upper part of the fish from the ground. His mate was just behind him, standing upon her hind feet her fore feet, antennes and mandibles wedged between the scales of the fish above her while she was thrusting forward with all her might to push along the fish as her mate lifted. All in vain! There was still Again there seemed to be a conference Then the head rose again, lifted as before; but when it had reached its utmost height she reared herself upon her hind feet, braced herself so as to receive upon her head the whole weight and thus set free the other beetle, who ran around behind the fish, turned his back to it, worked himself backward under the fan of the tail until he was almost concealed from view, then buried his orange colored antennie in the earth, humped his back, gave one resolute thrust and away went red throat, "little wife and all."

The movement had been so sudden that his companion was taken quite unawares, but though she was thrown some distance with the weight of the whole fish upon her she did not seem at all discomfited, but was out and up on her feet again, evidently delighted that more than an inch of progress had been made.

Thus, inch by inch, these two patient tollers carried their load, sometimes lifting as I have described, sometimes tugging with their horny forceps, sometimes pushing and thrusting with every posture and method. In a half hour they had made ess than A foot of progress. Two hours later, when I returned from a fishing jaunt along the stream, they had reached the edge of the path, where there is a steep decline for eighteen inches toward the stream, and below it a soft bed of sandy loam. As it was the hour appointed for luncheon, and my comrades had not vet come, I waited to witness the burial, or at least the steps toward it.

In a few minutes the edge of the steep declivity had been reached. One beetle was on his back under the fish, pushing with all his might. The other was in front, tugging with her teeth. Suddenly, as the verge was reached, the fish toppled; a minlature avalanche was set in motion, and down to the bottom went the three, the fish on top, the two sextons underneath. The body being now in place, excava-lons for its burial were immediately berun. Each of the beetles passing under began to dig away the soil and to thrust it backward with the feet. Soon, all around the body, at the distance of an inch or so from it, reminding one of the hasty intrenchment about some military camp, rose a little embankment of finely pulverized earth, which had been dug with the strong forceps that served as picks, and thrown back with the six horny feet that supplied the place of shovels. The body gradually sank as the embankment slowly rose, the head lingering longest above the original level.

I returned from time to time to watch the progess of the burial. When the shadows of evening were falling, and I reurned for the last time, a portion of the head was still visible, all the rest being under the earth. In a few hours more the little red throat was lying three or four inches under the ground, as neatly and carefully buried as if some man had done the work .- T. D. Witherspoon in St. Nich-

The Moose Is a Wonderful Animal. I encountered an interesting person the of a natural history collection. I surmise that he officiates as janitor, for he knows more different things about natural science than anybody that I ever met, and if he chose he could astonish some of the professors with his attainments. For example, "The tiger is a very sthrong animal," says he, "and his tail is the sthrongest part of him. Wid one whisk of his tail he can cut a man in two at the waist. The moose is a sthrong animal too. You can guess how sthrong he is when I'm tellin you that he sheds his horns every winter, and as soon as he has 'em on the ground he ates 'em. Tink of the teeth he has in him to ate his own horns! But he's good 'atin himself, the moose is.

Insects Have Thousands of Eyes. The eyes of insects present several pecuiarities. Often in the same individual we shall find two sets of eyes, the simple and the compound, these latter having a large number of minute hexagonal facets, each of which is in reality a cornea; and the marvel is that every single facet belongs to a distinct eye with pupil, iris, lens, all omplete. The number of these corneas varies very considerably. While the ant possesses fifty only, the ordinary house fly as 4,000, butterflies have no fewer than 17,000 and some beetles rejoice in as many as 25,000.—Chambers' Journal.
